

COSEE Alaska is compiling a regional resource directory to connect scientists, educators, and outreach and media specialists. The focus will be on collaborating to provide outreach and education about Alaska ocean climate change and traditional and local knowledge about climate change.

Please join the directory if you are:

- A scientist who would like to work with education partners or science communication specialists
- An educator who would like to find scientist partners
- A science outreach or media specialist, writer or journalist who like to find scientists as sources for information

The directory will be available online and available as a publication updated annually. Online information will be password-protected to prevent spamming.
